SHAFFER NAMES MEDINA MAN TO HIGHWAY POST

C. Homer Bricker Appointed To Head Ashland Division Under Herbert Regime.

C. Homer Bricker of Medina, president of the County Engineers Association of Ohio and a veteran of 30 years in highway engineering, today was named engineer in charge of Division 3 of the state highway department with headquarters at Ashland

Bricker, 50, was one of four division engineers appointed by Murray D. Shaffer, Ohio's new highway director under Governor-Elect Thomas J. Herbert.

Bricker, who will take office Jan. 13 at Ashland, will replace Acting Division Engineer Joseph Tomsic and be in charge of the state highway department in eight counties: Ashland, Richland, Erie, Huron, Lorain, Medina, Wayne and Crawford.

H. F. Gerold, Division 3 engineer under most of Governor Frank J. Lausche's administration, resigned the post several months ago.

Others named today to division posts are:

O. C. Kohli, succeeding Max Stringfellow, Division 1 at Lima, Howard P. Christy, succeeding George W. Kerr, Division 5 at Newark, including Knox and Coshocton counties; Robert F. Werner, succeeding Grover C. Snyder, Division 6 at Delaware, including Delaware and Morrow counties.

SNOW LIKELY AS '46 DIES

The New Year's eve weather forecast:

"The radiators of your automobile will be able to make better use of alcohol than the drivers."

A cold and snappy farewell to 1946 was seen by the weatherman tonight, with the possibility of a light snow to furnish a mantle of white for young 1947.

Although temperatures early today did not reach the five to 10 above zero predicted by the weather bureau yesterday because of a "stubborn warm front"—comparatively speaking—the mercury hit a low of 11 at Havesville last night.

In north central states, however, the mercury plnnged to new lows, with a teeth-chattering 42 below zero at Bemidji,, Minn., and 30 below at Duluth.

POTATO LOSS HIGH FOR U. S.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Agriculture department officials predicted today that 20,000,000 bushels of frozen and rotten potatoes, part of the 1946 crop surplus of nearly 100,000,000 bushels, would be dumped.

Officials estimated the government's final loss on the surplus will amount to around $80,000,000.

Under wartime legislation, the agriculture department underwrote the 1946 crop of potatoes as well as many other farm products. It assured farmers that they would get at least 90 per cent of parity—the theoretical price determined to be equally fair to producers and consumers.

The potato trouble developed when the crop turned out to be about 100,000,000 bushels larger than the department had planned for and about that much larger than estimated consumer requirements.

When this surplus became apparent, potato prices tumbled. And the department was left to carry out its legal obligation to assure growers at least 90 per cent of parity.

Agency Says Job Must Be Started In Next 60 Days

The repeated delays in getting Richland county's proposed new $400,000, 49-bed tuberculosis sanatorium started appeared near an end today with receipt of a project approval from the Civilian Production administration.

County commissioners reported they received by mail the CPA's approval which, however, indicated that construction of the hospital must begin within 60 days and be completed within 365 days.

LEGISLATOR ILL: John L. Catlett, Mansfield attorney and representative to the Ohio legislature, was in General hospital today for observation for a possible cerebral hemorrhage, the family physician, Dr. F. J. Heringhaus, said today.

Although Catlett rested well last night and his condition this morning was satisfactory, he will not be able to attend the opening session of the Ohio assembly which convenes next week in Columbus, Dr. Heringhaus said. However, Catlett has retained consciousness

Catlett, a naval veteran of World War II, was taken ill at his home, 1023 Woodland road, about 10:30 p. m. Monday.

John W. Selby, one of the commissioners, said the CPA's approval stamp was dated Dec. 30.

"Since this is the commissioners' usual day off and tomorrow is a holiday, earliest action to secure bids from contractors would be Thursday morning," Selby said.

The commissioners have said they would advertise for bids from contractors just as soon as the CPA had granted approval. An application for CPA approval was submitted Oct. 24 but the permit was delayed for more than two months by a reported objection raised by the National Housing agency.

Approved Year Ago.

The project was approved by Richland county's voters in November, 1945, when they passed with an 87 per cent majority a $300,000 bond issue designed to finance it.

However, skyrocketing construction costs have pushed the commissioners' estimate of total costs to $400,000, the amount a CPA official recommended be placed in the permit application as "more realistic."

How the additional $100,000 is to be raised has not been discussed in detail although recent meetings of the commissioners, the advisory board of the sanatorium, and other tuberculosis officials indicated that another bond issue might be proposed.

There was also hope that federal funds could be obtained, but Dr. Oren A. Beatty, medical director of the present sanatorium, has reported that government aid would not be available until Ohio has made a state-wide survey of hospital needs. He said the survey probably would not be made for nearly a year.

Stranded Craft Freed From Bar

CHILLICOTHE — (INS) — The Tantalus, home-made houseboat in which Mr. and Mrs. Warren Christianson are seeking to sail to Minneapolis, was afloat today after being grounded since December 14.

The craft floated free of a scioto river sandbar near Chillicothe last night. The Christiansons hoped to reach Portsmouth and the Ohio river today. The boat has been grounded three times since its leisurely journey began Nov. 27.

Jack-the-Snipper Still Hunts Locks

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Many Washington women took to scarf and snood today to protect their tresses from the busy scissors of Jack-the-snipper.

Jack was still at large despite the earnest sleuthing of a trolley-riding posse of police. Trolleys were believed to be his favorite base of operations.

BANDIT TRIO OBTAINS $580 FROM WOMAN

Store Owner's Wife and Son Victims of Holdup on Ashland Road.

By ART ANDERSON

Richland county sheriff's officers combed the county today in search of three armed and masked bandits who last night robbed the Black Fork market, six miles east ot Mansfield on the Ashland road, and fled with $580 in cash.

Mrs. Sam Stankovich told officers the trio walked into the store about 9:30 p. m. while she and her seven-year-old son, George, were in the store. They brandished a pistol, grabbed her purse, containing the money in $20 bills, and fled north on the Hale-Simpson road in a cream colored coupe.

Mrs. Stankovich and her husband own the store and operate a farm nearby. At the time of the robbery her husband had driver into Lincoln Heights, she said.

* * *

Recounts Details.

Recounting her experiences, Mrs. Stankovich said:

"I think somebody wants to make joke when I see their face covered so I asked them, 'What you boys want?'"

"But one of them jumped over the counter and I see he has a gun," she said, waving her hand in the menacing manner of the bandit.

"They no answer me. They no say nothing all the time they are here."

* * *

Transfixed With Fear.

Mrs. Stankovich said she and George stood transfixed with fear at the far end of the counter during the robbery.

Mrs. Stankovich described the bandit who leaped over the counter as small of stature, weighing approximately 140 pounds, wearing some Army clothes and a red and white "bandana" with eye slits cut out.

She said an accomplice who stood halfway between the door and counter wore a small mask covering the upper part of his face. He was more than six feet tall.

The third bandit stood in the door and Mrs. Stankovich was unable to give officers a description of him.

Deputy Sheriffs Harold Marvin and Foster Palmer investigated. Sheriff Frank E. Robinson continued the hunt today.

ROBBERY VICTIM—Mrs. Sam Stankovich points to a drawer in an Ashland road market from which three armed and masked bandits last night took her purse containing $580. Mrs. Stankovich and her seven-year-old son were kept at the end of the counter by one of the men while another took the purse and a third stood at the door. The men didn't say a word, Mrs. Stankovich said.

City Ready For One Of Noisiest Parties

Noise makers were given a final sheen today as Mansfield prepared to celebrate its biggest and noisiest New Year's eve in six years.

With virtually all of its soldier boys home, the city is ready to welcome "Kid '47" with a bang!

Police Chief Meade K. Bates, predicting the biggest celebration in years, will have an extra force of officers on duty, plus two extra police cruisers.

The department's main target—other than just plain "drunks"—Bates said, would be intoxicated drivers and night clubs "which step out of line."

"If celebrations don't get out of hand we'll all have a good time," the chief said. "If they do—we'll fold 'em up early."

* * *

IN PREPARATION FOR THE holiday, many offices and businesses closed early. The city building closed at noon and will reopen Thursday. The postoffice will be closed New Year's day.

Clubs and homes throughout the city were scheduling parties while six of the city's 30 churches planned "watch night" parties.

Churches meeting tonight to see the old year out and the new year in, include Mayflower Congregational, at 9:30 p. m; Grace Gospel, 11 p. m.; First Church of God, 8:30 p. m.; Mansfield Gospel Center, 7:30 p. m., and Mt. Calvary Baptist, 10 p. m.

Brookline Chapel, Eighth avenue and Ashland road and Church of the Brethren, Lincoln Heights, will hold their usual Wednesday services at 7:30 p. m.

At St. Peter's Catholic church, the regular Sunday schedule of Masses will start at 5 a. m.

Lights Glow For Skaters At Year End

Lights will glow for the first time this winter for New Year's eve skaters, Park Supt. Frank Burton said today.

Reporting the ice at North lake and Liberty parks three inches thick, Burton said the lights will be turned on at 7 p. m. and will remain lighted until about 11 p. m.

Burton urged skaters using North Lake pond to park cars at a lot near the pavilion instead of on the lake drive in order to eliminate traffic jams.

Sudden Action Terminates 20 War Statutes

Chief Executive Says Move Follows Policy To Bring U. S. Economy Back To Peacetime Basis

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman ended today the period of hostilities of the second World war.

He left intact, however, the states of emergency declared by the late President Roosevelt before the United States went to war and he said that today's action does not end "the state of war itself."

Recommendations will go to congress in the near future, Mr. Truman told a news conference, with respect to cancelling the national emergency and ending the state of war.

His proclamation ending hostilities, effective at noon today, did erase from the statute books at once 20 wartime laws.

Still others will automatically die six months from today unless congress acts to continue them. One of these is the Smith-Connally Anti-Strike Act under which the government has seized strike-bound plants and mines.

Another is the law under which wartime leases of silver held or owned by the United States is permitted.

In a few instances, Mr. Truman said, statutes affected by the proclamation give the government certain powers he believes should be continued in peacetime, or at least for the remainder of the period of reconversion.

In these instances, the president said, he will ask congress for additional legislation.

The president emphasized that the termination of the period of hostilities did not have the effect of terminating the state of war itself.

Nor, he said, does it terminate the states of emergency declared by President Roosevelt on Sept. 8, 1939, and May 27, 1941.

"With respect to the termination of the national emergency and the state of war I shall make recommendations to the congress in the near future," his formal statement, read to the reporters, concluded.

* * *

Ends Anti-Strike Act.

Among other things, the president said that his action would terminate the life of the Smith-Connally Anti-Strike Act six months from today.

The time has come, Mr. Truman said at one point during an exchange with reporters, when the executive branch should give up some of the powers exercised during the war.

"This is entirely in keeping with the policies which I have consistently followed," he said (reading again from his statement) "in an effort to bring our economy and our government back to a peacetime basis as quickly as possible."

Only yesterday Senator Wiley (R., Wis.) reported to the senate Republican conference that the effect would be "chaotic" if all the government's wartime controls were repealed at a single stroke. He proposed a review by the judiciary committee which he will head in the 80th congress "in the light of the overall national welfare."

* * *

Power Divided.

Power to declare an end to most wartime emergency laws was vested in both the president and congress. Either could act separately.

The president concluded the conference by telling reporters he would see them again at 4 o'clock (EST) Thursday afternoon. The conference was limited to discussion of his proclamation.

In a separate document, the White House listed emergency statutes affected immediately by the proclamation:

These include:

The Smith-Connally Act amendment to the Selective Service Act under which plants may be seized when their tie-up affects the war effort. The repeal would not affect past seizures.

The section of the National Defense Act authorizing the secretary of war to maintain camps of instructions for members of the Reserve Officers Training corps for six week priods.

An act of May 14, 1940, under which the president may authorize additional enlistments in the army medical department to such number as he deems necessary.

'46 Trips (Or Staggers) Out At 12 Tonight

(By Associated Press)

Cautious Ohioans battened the hatches and fastened safety belts today, for this is New Year's eve—amateur night among the state's two-fisted drinkers.

Tonight is the night the sober ring bells and the not-so-sober kick the gong around, welcoming little old 1947 to this vale of dangerous driving.

Throughout the state harried officials whose job it is to keep some semblance of order were planning to face the biggest champagne clambake since before the depression.

Money still is more plentiful than good Scotch, which makes the 1946 version of loping down liquor lane both popular and costly.

Near sellouts were reported by joy joints from the Ohio river to Lake Erie, with cover charges in the class cafes $10 per celebrant.

In Cleveland police delivered an ultimatum: drunken celebrants on the streets will be jailed for safety's sake. One hundred sixty additional cops will back that statement.

Just to make sure the public understands, Cleveland police will use sound truck urging caution. They also requested public address systems within night clubs to broadcast similar pleas.

"If you drink, don't drive," warned the Columbus city safety director, C. C. Cole.

With all the feverish rush for public partying tonight, the swaddling year still will be welcomed at many places by watch parties planned by church groups.

Taft Emerges as GOP 'Strong Man' In Senate

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A "big four" including two potential candidates for president took command today of Republicans organizing the first GOP-controlled senate in 14 years.

(Organizational spadework by Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio paid dividends today, said United Press Correspondent Raymond Lahr, in the distribution of senate Republican plums for the new congress, which convenes Friday. Taft, a leading 1948 GOP presidential possibility, emerged as the strong man of the senate Republican organization at the first session of the three-day Republican conference. He won major assignments, and the slate of leaders he helped prepare was approved without change.)

Senators Vandenberg of Michigan, Taft of Ohio, White of Maine and Millikin of Colorado held the guiding reins firmly after beating down a widely heralded but short-lived intra-party uprising.

Hence their voices carried greater weight than before as the committee on committees met to go over working assignments of the 51 Republican members and the steering committee gathered to decide what to do about attempts to bar Senator Bilbo (D., Miss.) from a third term.

First organization attempts of the Republicans in the new congress thus went off as planned, possibly presaging a somewhat similar result when house members meet Thursday to go through the same procedure.

Despite loud opposition from anti-Dewey forces, Rep. Halleck of Indiana appeared certain of victory in the four-day race there for the GOP floor leadership. Halleck has been endorsed for the post by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the 1944 presidential nominee who generally is expected to bid for a second try at the White House.

Taft was named to the senate's new steering committee and was expected to be elected its chairman at today's session. Vandenberg was chosen for president pro tempore, the presiding officer's job on which the full senate finally must pass.

White was picked for party floor leader and Millikin was named chairman of the GOP conference. All four apparently will head committees also, with Vandenberg taking over foreign relations, Taft labor, White commerce and Millikin finance.

Senator Wherry (R., Neb.), reelected whip and assistant leader, stood somewhat apart from the top quartet as they disposed of opposition to their organization plans.

But the price of peace included some concessions.

White stepped out as chairman of the committee on committees and Senator Robertson of Wyoming took over from the opposition ranks. Senator Knowland of California, a comparative newcomer, won a place on this group, along with Senators Taft, Brooks of Illinois, Butler of Nebraska, Bushfield of South Dakota, Capehart of Indiana and Donnell of Missouri.

Although Senator Reed of Kansas told reporters he planned to resume his fight for the commerce chairmanship today, Robertson said he thought the tentative assignments made by the old committee would stand.

These would give Reed no chairmanship, although he claims seniority of the public lands group, if he doesn't get the commerce post.

Robertson said he would suggest as a compromise that subcommittees of the commerce group be set up with Reed heading one on land transportation, White a group on radio, and Senator Brewster of Maine a group on aviation.

The veterans at the top also gave some ground to freshmen colleagues on important committees.

The steering committee which Taft heads was announced as including Brooks, of Illinois, Hawkes of New Jersey, Ferguson of Michigan, Cordon of Oregon, Saltonstall of Massachusetts, and Vandenberg, White and Wherry as ex-officio members.

None of this, however, pleased Senator Tobey of New Hampshire.

Tobey, who conceded that the leadership group had rolled down his protests without much ado, complained to reporters that the committee on committees had no easterners as members. He said he was bowing to the will of the conference, however, and would not push further his contention that it had no authority to act until congress actually convenes Friday.

Carl A. Loeffler, who will be 74 next Jan. 12, was chosen for the $12,000 a year job as secretary of the senate. He will succeed Leslie L. Biffle, who is expected to become director of the Democratic policy committee.

Edward F. McGinnis of Chicago, a former navy commander and American Legion official, was chosen for the $12,000 post as sergeant at arms, succeeding Wall Doxey.

GET TOP SENATE MAJORITY POSTS—In a happy mood as they meet after the senate Republican conference yesterday in Washington at which they were chosen to fill top senate majority posts, are Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (Mich.), chosen to be senate presiding officer; Sen. Kenneth Wherry (Neb.) (center), named majority whip, and Sen. Wallace H. White jr. (Me.), chosen majority floor leader.—(AP Wirephoto)

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, January 1.

SUDDEN and exciting events of far-reaching and radical significance should give renewed impetus to the energies, talents, and objectives, and perhaps bring to focus—abruptly and thrillingly—a long hoped for and devoutly wished for change, climax or adventure, dramatic, revolutionary, even romantic in its quite unforeseen impact. While the mentality may be keyed to brilliant ideas, patterns and reorganized plans for the future, yet this undermining event is more likely to spring from novel, strange or "occult" sources. Follow up with sound acumen and precision.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves tossed into a year of unpredictable, unprecedented, dramatic and breathtaking adventure, this affecting profoundly and with far-reaching influence the present environs, contacts, and interests, as well as figuring in a revolutionary manner in the distant future. Happily, this whirlwind state of events, while disturbing or stimulating the emotions and impulses, is illuminated by a brilliant mind, capable of penetrating mysterious or erratic aspects, with keen insight, sound perspective and shrewd grasp of underlying elements. Personal life and ties are full of drama and romance as well.

Myers-Ernst

GALION — Miss Nancy Ann Myers and Bernard William Ernst who were married Saturday afternoon at the rectory of St Joseph's church by Rev. Father F. X. Hermiller, are at home to their friends at 342 North Columbus street. The double ring service was used.

Attending the couple were the bride's cousin, Miss Jo Ann Kopp of Canton, and James Anthony Ernst who served as best man and also gave the bride away.

After the ceremony, a reception for a few close friends was held at the Ernst home

The former Miss Myers is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B W. Myers of Tucson, Arizona, former Galion residents. She was graduated from Galion High school, and is now associated with the Tuttle Confectionery store.

Mr. Ernst is the son of Mr. and Mrs Clem Ernst of East Parson street. He was graduated from Galion High school in 1943, and served for three and one-half years with the U. S. Navy in the South Pacific.

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking for Myself — (About Hollywood). The new vogue in Hollywood these days seems to be regal furs with an inferiority complex. "Casual" is what the couturiers call it, I believe—"the casual treatment." Almost everybody has or is getting an ermine polo coat like the one Ginger Rogers slips over her suits in the afternoon, and I have seen photographs of glamour girls shopping at the Farmer's Market with stone marten greatcoats tossed casually over their slacks

Any day now I expect to hear from Don Loper or Adrian that the big news is chinchilla lumber jackets and sable dungarees.

* * *

Every time I see Dick Powell in one of those killer--diller mellers, with a ten-day growth of nasty beard, his tie spotted and dangling and that bloodshot look in his bonny blues, there flits through my mind a most poetic scene: Debonair Dick, wavy and smooth-cheeked and slick, using his eyes and eyebrows as coquettishly as a soubrette as he sank "Flirtation Walk" to a dimpled Ruby Keeler.

One of my journalistic colleagues, a cute little fellow who knocks out six columns a week from Hollywood, emitted a wistful suggestion the other day. He begged the movie greats to stop being so lush in their choice of words to describe films—especially the bad ones.

It would be just wonderful, says my friend, if some producer would run a big ad in the papers telling how terrible his movie is, instead of letting his copy-writers make it sound as good as he'd like to think it was.

One of Hollywood's chief charms, it seemes to me, is the manner in which it scatters complimentary adjectives about itself the way John D. Rockefeller used to scatter dimes. It's stupendous make-believe, completely in character for a town that does things on such a gigantic scale that molehills are quite naturally described as mountains.

I'll take those ads as they are, thanks. I don't have to believe them, but as reading matter they're sensational, magnificent, enthralling, super-colossal, and we take pride in presenting.

* * *

One of my favorite ways of wasting time is playing a little game which, for lack of a more inspirational title, I call Casting. I sit around assuming I am Hollywood's five major casting directors (quite an assumption) and I have been assigned to work on a movie about current figures on the national or international scene.

My trick is to pick the right actors to portray these characters on the screen, and my game has only two rules: I can't use personalities who've already appeared in films (like Sister Kenny and Al Jolson) and actors like Paul Muni, Don Ameche and Cornel Wilde are out of bounds. These boys have already portrayed so many actual characters it would be cruel to force them into any more crepe hair.

I'd adore to see Henry Fonda play President Truman, with that midwestern drawl, and if Robert Walker can play Jerome Kern, why not? For Margaret Truman, I'd cast big-eyed Ann Dvorak in a blonde wig. How about Guy Kibbee as Jim Farley, Jimmie Gleason as Ernest Bevin, and Mickey Rooney as Molotov?

John L. Lewis? Easy. Just put cotton wadding in the cheeks, paste on a pair of prop eyebrows, and watch Boris Karloff dust off Old King Coal

COURT RULES AGAINST VIDOR

HOLLYWOOD—Charles Vidor, noted film director, today was still an employe of Columbia Pictures corporation—like it or not.

Vidor lost his suit in federal court yesterday to break his contract with Columbia on the grounds that Harry Cohn, president of the movie company, insulted him by calling him naughty names.

Federal Judge Ben Harrison held that the language used by Cohn was "part of his vocabulary, used as superlative adjectives," and not intended as insults.

"The court finds that Harry Cohn was accustomed to and in the habit of using obscene language in talking to Mr. Vidor and others," the judge said.

"Mr. Vidor knew before he entered into the contract of 1944 the habits and characteristics of Mr. Cohn; knew the kind of language he and others in the employ of the defendant would have to encounter; knew the general environment and type of language habitually used at the defendant's studio. Mr. Vidor lived, thrived and prospered under such existing conditions and accepted them as a matter of course."

TRUMAN SELECTS ATOMIC MANAGER

Wilson, a right hand man of Dr. Vannevar Bush in the development of scientific weapons during the last war, has been a consultant to the commission since its appointment in October.

In announcing the appointment, Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said Wilson had been picked for this "most important post" after an exhaustive inquiry that extended throughout the country. Wilson, a resident of Framingham, Mass., is married and father of three children.

MANSFIELD MEETS LIMA CENTRAL FRIDAY

FAIR OR FOUL

by LAWTON CARVER

International News Service

NEW YORK—(INS)—Cancellation of the Army-Notre Dame football series brings to an end the most lucrative and scandalous ticket-scalping harvest and the most over-emphasized sports event to be found in America.

This annual $400,000 presentation, which started obscurely in 1913, gradually has been getting out of hand for years and reached its frenzied peak of nonsense last Nov. 9, when the teams played their scoreless tie.

I know of several cases where hopped-up fans offered to pay as much as $100 a ticket, and probably would have stood for a hike in the price—anything to see the game, with no assurance of seeing the game once they got into the Yankee stadium.

Seats were sold which offered a view of only fragments of the field, and that particular renewal of the game was the worst handled of all such sports extravaganzas ever seen in the East.

The Army and Notre Dame knew of their inadequacy to cope with such a situation; and they admitted in a joint statement that the "game had grown to such proportions that it had come to be played under conditions escaping the control of the two colleges, some of which were not conducive to wholesome intercollegiate sport."

Not only the widespread scalping of tickets, but the poorly planned seating for that game last month caused tremendous furore and clinched the cancellation which previously had been discussed. Army made the first move toward ending the rivalry.

A hint of what was to come could be found in the address made more recently by Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, academy superintendent, before the Eastern Collegiate conference.

He found much to be alarmed at in college football as it is being conducted today, and seemed to hint that Army planned to pull in its horns.

This rivalry will not be renewed for at least three or four years — if then — because both schools have completed their schedules through 1950.

3 Fox Hunts Scheduled

Two of the hunts will be in the morning with the third in the afternoon. Morning hunts will be at Lexington and Shelby-Tiro-Plymouth and the afternoon chase at New Washington in the Ganges area.

Richland county fox hunters game and pest control is sponsoring the hunt at Lexington and participants will meet at Castor's garage in Lexington at 9 a. m. Glenn Pry will be in charge of the hunt and dinner will be served in Lexington.

Last Saturday's hunt by the Richland county outfit netted two foxes. The Richland group plans another hunt Saturday. Hunters wil lmeet at Route 42 and Stuart road four miles northeast of Mansfield.

Line captains for the other morning hunt are: Emery Schiefer, West; Woodie Lybarger, south; Dow Horner, east and Bert Forquer, north. Linemen are Best Baker, Carl Claes and John Good.

South and east lines will meet at Griffith's school, all at 9 a. m. Shot guns will be allowed and proceeds will go to restocking game. Lunch will be served at the Plymouth Grange hall on Route 98 following the hunt.

West Fifth 5 Wins Easily

With Benny Carbetta cascading 29 points through the hoop, West Fifth blasted Brinkerhoff out of the competition, 46 to 4. The losers got all of their points in the third quarter.

Newman defeated Bushnell in the other first round contest by a 27 to 9 score. McMillen, Newman center, had 10 points

HOT AND COLD DRAGONS HAVE 5 LETTERMEN

Offensive and Defensive Records Identical.

The Bengals will carry a commendable record of five wins and two losses into the fray but three of the victories have been by one-point. In Central, they will face a potentially tough aggregation which has blown hot and cold in winning three of six contests.

Coach Dick Peters' Dragons opened with victories over Dayton Kiser, 64 to 15 and 39 to 33 and then dropped three in a row, Defiance, 41 to 30; Springfield, 50 to 36 and Findlay, 45 to 30 all took the measure of Central. The Dragons pounced back to beat a favored Lorain quintet 51 to 41 Saturday night.

The teams have almost identical offensive and defensive records and average about the same in the height department. Dave Temple, center, is the lone Central starter that goes over six-foot, although Tom Haines, a sub guard, who has seen plenty of action, shades the six-foot mark.

Mansfield has a slight edge offensively 40.4 to 40 while Central has a defensive bulge 37.5 to 40.6.

Peters has five lettermen off his 1945-46 squad which bowed to the Tygers 31 to 22. The vets are: Bill Sharp and Jim Hoff, forwards; Temple, center and Jack Sweeney and Joe Ballinger, guards. All except Ballinger started against the Tygers and he came in long enough to garner three points.

Ace of the outfit is Sharp who gained All-Ohio honors as a football halfback on Central's unbeaten team of 1946. Hoff played end and Ballinger, guard on the grid team. Sharp was a unanimous choice at forward on the Greater Ohio league team last year. The league is composed of such teams at Middletown, Springfield, Hamilton, Lima South and Dayton Roosevelt.

The Central scoring is pretty well divided with Sharp leading the parade with 58 points. Ballinger made his best bid Saturday when he hit for 16 against Lorain.

Though his average dropped to 11 a game, veteran Ollie Cline continues to dominate the points. Tommy Bloor has 69, followed by Chuck Sisco with 56.

The Bengals have connected on 59 of 116 free throws, an average of .508. Ralph Majors has been the most consistent from the charity line with .667 while Cline has .567.

Plumbers Take First Place

Mansfield Plumbers moved into first place in the Junior basketball league by edging Marshall's Market, 26 to 25, last night on the Friendly House court.

In other league games, Saprano's cigar store rolled over Junior Optimists, 34 to 20 and Roseland nipped the Wild Cats, 26 to 22. Robertson, Marshalls, was the high scorer with five field goals and three free throws for 13 ponnts.

Crowley Takes Over Rockets

CHICAGO—(AP)—"Sleepy" Jim Crowley—having forsaken the post as commissioner of the All-America football conference to assume the title of (1) head coach, (2) general manager and (3) executive vice president of the Chicago Rockets—today said he and his associates were ready to pump $250,000 into the outfit to get a winning combination.

The Rockets, one of the less fortunate All-America conference clubs last season, both in attendance at their huge Soldier Field home and in victories, were taken over yesterday by Crowley and two of his wealthy old-time cronies who chummed with him since grammar school days in Green Bay, Wis.

The financial backers, who have zippers on their purses instead of strings, are William S. Toohey, Chicago syrup magnate, and John Brogan, a Green Bay ship-building executive.

Officials of the All-America conference said there were no immediate plans to name a new commissioner to succeed Crowley, who had signed a five-year contract at an annual salary of $25,000 and left four years of his term unserved.

Toohey takes the position as president of the Rockets—which finished at the bottom of the Western division of the new pro circuit last season with five wins and three ties in 14 starts—and Brogan as secretary-treasurer.

19 Bowl Games Ring In 1947

500,000 SPORTS FANS EXPECTED IN STANDS

NEW YORK—(AP)—The New Year's day football bowls, which at last count numbered 19, throw open their gates tomorrow to an estimated half million sports fans who will ring in the new year by saying goodbye to the grid greats of the old.

With the exception of unbeaten Army and Notre Dame, content to stand on their laurels without benefit of post-season performance, the major grid Titans of 1946 will be on display tomorrow for this finale of perhaps the greatest season in the game's history.

The grand-daddy of them all, of course, is the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, which had its inception in a meeting of Michigan and Stanford back in 1902. There was a lapse between that game and the meeting of Washington State and Brown in 1916, but from there on, the string is unbroken.

Illinois, designee of the Western (Big Nine) conference, meets University of California at Los Angeles in tomorrow's classic, with some 90,000 expected.

Although shunning the "bowl" title, the Shrine game in San Francisco's Kezar stadium, rates next in post-season game longevity and tomorrow the Eastern and Western All-Stars will meet in the 22nd annual classic.

The Orange Bowl got under way at Miami in 1933 as Florida entered the act, and the South came up two years later with its own, the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans. The Sun Bowl began at El Paso, Tex., a year later, and the Cotton Bowl followed at Dallas the year after that.

While Notre Dame and Army still rate as the two best in the nation, four of the bowls present some unusual class in the way of sectional champions.

The Rose Bowl has the champions of the Pacific Coast and the Big Nine, the Sugar Bowl the co-champion of the Southeastern conference and the champion of the Southern conference, Georgia and North Carolina. The Orange Bowl presents the co-holders of the Southeastern and Southwestern conferences, Tennessee and Rice. Arkansas, co-champion of the Southwest, and Louisiana State, near the top in the Southeast, meet in the Cotton Bowl.

Altogether, these four major bowl games will have seven sectional or conference champions or co-champions.

The Oil Bowl at Houston pits Georgia Tech against St. Mary's while the Sun Bowl's attractions are Virginia Tech and Cincinnati. In the Alamo Bowl at San Antonio are Hardin-Simmons and Denver, while the Cigar Bowl at Tampa, Fla., pairs Delaware and Rollins.

And so it goes, on down the list, with each bidding for its segment of fandom. Next to the 90,000 expected at Pasadena, the Sugar Bowl probably will pack in the most, 73,000. The Shriners expect 62,000 for the East-West game. Another 38,000 is expected at the Orange Bowl, while Texas' Cotton Bowl and Oil Bowls will divide some 75,000 between them.

Simpson To Practice

John Simpson junior high school basketball team will practice tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock on the Simpson floor, Coach Bob Kennedy announced today.

Rough Stuff Is Promised

Mat mayhem in large quantities is promised for Mansfield wrestling fans when the weekly grunt and groan exhibitions are resumed tomorrow night at the armory.

The opening bout will provide most of the fireworks as Cedar Rapids' Buzz Jones has a wide following as a "villian." Jones will welcome the "Great Kirlenkox" to Mansfield with assorted gouging, hair-pulling and fisticuffs. "Kirlenko" is also reported to be quite handy with the dirty stuff.

John Cretoria, Norwalk, and Ken Mayne, Texas, meet in the main event. Both matches will be two-of-three falls with a 60 minute time limit.

KOMEDY KINGS RAP COLUMBUS FIVE, 40 TO 34

Smokehouse Wins Prelim From Richland, 33 to 29.

Professional basketball returned to Mansfield last night with the New York Komedy Kings defeating the Columbus Pros, 40 to 34, on the Senior high gym floor.

The Komedy Kings, paced by lanky Casey Jones, trailed for more than three quarters but put a potent fast break on display in the final quarter to win going away. Jones made 12 of his 16 points in the last half.

Comedy antics by "Circus Eddie" Hamman and vociferous officiating by little Jesse Garrett vied with the pro contest as the top attraction. Nearly 800 fans watched the exhibition sponsored by the Mansfield City A basketball league.

Dante Lavelli, star Cleveland Brown end, was in the Columbus starting lineup. While not a finished basketball player by a long ways, Dante is playing his second season of pro ball and figures to be quite a drawing card. Last night's game was his first since the end of the football campaign.

On hand, too, but in the role of a spectator, was Ohio State's great war-time fullback, Ollie Cline. Cline is still in the OD's of the army but figures to be back in Buckeye moleskins next fall.

Columbus led at the intermission points 10-7, 23-12 and 29-25. The Pros held a 32 to 31 lead with four minutes to go but the Kings connected for nine straight points to clinch the result.

Undefeated 'Smokehouse sent Richland Beverage to its first defeat in the non-league exhibition contest which opened the bargain bill. Smokehouse held the Beveragemen scoreless for a ten minute period in the last half to record the 33 to 29 victory.

The score was tied at the quarter 8 to 8 and at halftime, 21 to 21. Smokehouse was in the van 31 to 23 as the final period got under way. Jim Stahl, Richland sub guard, led the scorers with 11 points.

YOU HAVE MADE
Budweiser
TRADE MARK REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
THE MOST POPULAR BEER IN HISTORY

Inquiries about why enough Budweiser is not yet available have become so numerous that we ask our good friends everywhere in America to remember these facts:

Your demand has made Budweiser the most popular beer the world has ever known—year after year after year. Official government figures prove it.

Our production today is the greatest in the history of brewing. Yet, Budweiser's high standard of quality is maintained at all times.

The constantly expanded Home of Budweiser covering 70 city blocks in St. Louis is the world's largest brewery—as it was when beer returned in 1933.

Each year, beginning in 1933, facilities to increase the production of Budweiser were added... until the war put an end to expansion in the brewing industry.

But, each succeeding year found your increased demand running far ahead of our expanded facilities. Thus, Budweiser had to be rationed to dealers each year for several years before wartime shortages introduced rationing of many products to the country at large. In spite of the fact that grain quotas have been largely restored, Budweiser still is being rationed, because your demand still exceeds the production of our present vast facilities.

So that you will find Budweiser again wherever you ask for it, our post-war expansion program will get under way just as soon as building skills and materials are available.

Meanwhile, each day sees Budweiser arriving in communities everywhere to supply dealers equitably if not abundantly.

When you ask for Budweiser and get it, you are enjoying the quality and the distinctive taste that have made it—sip by sip, drink by drink, bottle by bottle and barrel by barrel, year in and year out, the most popular beer in history.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

THE SHARP ONE

Little Joe Otter's a sharp one. He has to be. He has something that other folks envy him for having and would take from him. Envy often is heartless and so without pity. It is his thick, warm, beautiful fur coat for which he is envied, and it is Man who seeks to take it from him. So excepting in summer Little Joe must constantly be on guard to save that precious fur coat and his life. And he is. Yes, sir, he is. It is not man himself that he fears, but what Man can do and does do. It is the cruel, merciless traps that Man sets which he fears. The sight of Man, no matter how far away, or the Man scent, no matter how faint, instantly fills him with distrust and suspicion.

So it was that Little Joe, returning from a trip far up the brook above the pond of Paddy the Beaver, stopped to listen to a harsh voice faint in distance so great that Little Joe's eyes could not find its possessor. He didn't need to in order to know whose voice it was. There is no other voice quite like the harsh voice of Croaker the Raven.

"Old Croaker sees some one he doesn't like the looks of. I can tell by the way he croaks," thought Little Joe. He listened a moment longer. "I wonder," said he, and in his eyes was a look of suspicion mingled with distrust.

He moved on, hurrying a little, but having fun just the same. What boy or girl seeing smooth ice ahead can resist the temptation to run a few steps and then slide as far as possible? It makes fun out of going on an errand, even of going to school. Little Joe Otter traveled in much the same way, getting up speed with short jumps, then throwing himself forward flat on his stomach with his legs straight backing and sliding as far as he could on the ice or through the snow. There he made a long furrow each time.

When he came to the open water just above where the brook entered the pond of Paddy the Beaver, and where he had made his own slipperly slide down a steep bank, he began to move about slowly, carefully, using his eyes and his nose constantly. He saw nothing and smelled nothing out of the way, nothing to make him suspicious. Yet he was suspicious. He no longer heard Croaker the Raven, but he had no doubt that Croaker had seen a stranger, some one who did not live in the Green Forest. That being so, it must have been one of those two-legged folks whom all who live in the Green Forest distrust and whom most fear.

"Perhaps he was up here while I was away. I must be careful," thought Little Joe.

He was careful. When he had circled around to the top of his slippery slide he didn't slide down into the black water as he so dearly loves to do. Everything seems just as always but he had a feeling of uneasiness. He had known dreadful things to happen to unsuspecting Otters when they reached the bottom of a slippery slide. He circled around and entered the water at another place. He swam back and forth along both sides watching the banks. Finally he swam to the place where had been in the habit of leaving the water because the bank was low there, making it easy to climb out. Just there the water was only two or three inches deep and he could put his feet down on the bottom when he started to go ashore.

He didn't go ashore now. He felt as if some one had whispered in his ear not to, that there was danger there. Of course no one had. It was just that distrustful feeling of uneasiness. He floated just a little way out, looking that bank over. It looked all right. Everything seemed to be just as he remembered it.

He swam to where the water was frozen over and climbed out on the ice and then went ashore. There he found signs that some one had been there very recently. In places the snow crust was slightly broken. Carefully he smelled all about these. At last at one of them he got just the faintest of scents, but faint as it was he knew instantly what it was. It was the Man smell. He knew for a certainty now that it was one of those two-legged folks distrusted by all who live in the Green Forest whom Croaker the Raven had seen. That was all he wanted to know.

SHELBY PLANS SPECIAL RITES ON YEAR'S EVE

Industries, Businesses Close on Traditional Holiday.

SHELBY — Business will come to a standstill here tomorrow as Shelby industries and business places close so that their employes can spend the New Year holiday with their families.

Four Shelby churches, First Baptist, Church of the Nazarene, Christian and Missionary Alliance and Evangelical and Reformed, have special New Year's eve watch services planned for tonight.

Holy Communion will be celebrated at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at St. Mark's Episcopal church.

A pot-luck supper at 7 p. m. for the church members and friends will open the watch service at the First Baptist church. A midnight prayer meeting will close the program.

The Church of the Nazarene will be the scene of a watch service from 9 p. m. to 12 midnight today.

A joint watch service will be held this evening by the Adult and Young People's departments at the Evangelical United Brethren church.

Eagles Plan Party.

A prayer meeting starting at 8 p. m. will open the watch service at the Christian and Missionary Alliance church in charge of Rev. T. G. Mangham, pastor. Election of officers for the new year also will take place.

The Eagle lodge members and their guests will hold a watch party at the Eagle hall. Music for dancing will be played by Millers Happy Jacks. A floor show from Columbus will be given at 10 p. m.

Nollen Named Kiwanis Head

GALION—Paul Nollen was installed as president of the Galion Kiwanis club at the annual holiday party held by the Kiwanis club Friday evening in Hotel Talbott.

Other offices filled were vice president, Walter Mason; secretary, E. R. Pickering, and treasurer, Wilfred Dickerson. Installation was in charge of Rev. Philip E. Auer, a past vice president of Kiwanis International.

The party was attended by the ladies. Guest speaker was Dr. Fred Stinel of Marion, who is district lieutenant governor of Kiwanis.

GRAIN PRICES AGAIN QUOTED

Beginning today, The News-Journal will resume publication of quotations on the Mansfield area grain market. Quotations were not listed during the war years because prices were controlled by the government.

Quotations will be furnished daily by the Honegger-Hanley Mills, Inc., and the Lantz Milling company.

They quoted prices paid to farmers today as wheat, No. 2 red, $2.20 a bushel; corn, No. 2 yellow, $1.45, and oats, No. 2, 32 pounds, 80 cents.

J. O. Hanley of the Honegger-Hanley said since resumption of the free market upon expiration of the Office of Price Administration the grain market has varied widely Wheat, for example, has gone from $1.90 a bushel to $2.20, while corn, which under OPA was sold at a ceiling of $2.40 a bushel, has dropped to $1.45. Oats prices also have dropped, from 90 cents a bushel to 80 cents.

Hanley attributed the plunge in corn prices to the record three billion bushel crop this year, while wheat has increased in price because of the increased need for grains in this country and abroad.

Take It Easy, Chief warns

ASHLAND—New Year's Eve celebrants in Ashland had betterwatch their step tonight.

Police Chief Harry Smith has ordered all city patrolmen to be on the lookout for drunken driversand has issued a request to motorists not to drive after drinking.

The order was issued, the chief said, in the interest of a safe holiday for Ashlanders.

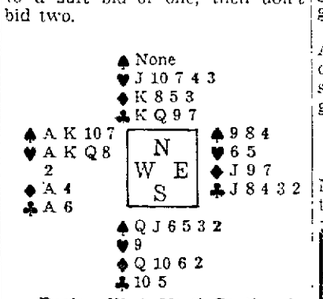
Barclay On Bridge

REGARDLESS of what counting method you use to measure the strength of your hand, the soundness of an opening game-guarantee two bid in a suit depends on one proposition. It is the answer to this question: "If your partner is too weak to answer a bid of one, do you want to be in a game contract?" If the reply is negative, if you would not want a game contract unless he was strong enough to respond to a suit bid of one, then don't bid two.



Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
2 ♥	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	3 NT

That tremendous hand in the West is the kind on which social bridge players all over the world make an opening bid of 2-Hearts. In fact, it could be quite a bit weaker and still cause them to demand a game with their original call. Many would do it because West has "six honor tricks," considering that factor alone enough justification for the call. Others would do it because there are "ten playing tricks," counting all the hearts as tricks and even considering the fourth spade as one, though more conservative measures would say the hand held about nine playing tricks.

Those who insist that a two-bid hand contain "more honor tricks than losers" would reckon that hand held only four, or at most five, losers against six honor tricks.

This hand is so strong that many of the finest players would open it with 2-Hearts.

But just see what happened to the 3 No-Trumps. It went down two, with East's hand not taking a solitary trick. Now note what would happen if West had bid only 1-Heart at the start. Even that would have been set a trick, perhaps two, with that weak dummy and the opponents' cards divided so badly.

Big cards certainly can shrink amazingly in value, when only junk is opposite them.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennett Cerf

I never fail to shudder at the story of the two drunks who appropriated a car and went tearing up Broadway at the height of the theater crush at sixty miles an hour.

"Thish ish terrible," cried the passenger. "I can't stand it." "Okay, then," counseled the driver, "Just close your eyes like I'm doing."

Another version of the same yarn has the passenger exclaiming, "For Pete's sake, look where you're driving," with the loon at the wheel answering, "Am I driving? I thought you were."

Two other gents, rather obviously under the influence, were hauled into court at Coney Island one Sunday. "All I was doing, Your Honor," protested the first, "was picking up pebbles."

"And me, I was just helping," chimed in the other.

"Officer," said the judge, "is what these men say true? If so, I don't see why they merited arrest."

"Your Honor," said the policeman grimly, "you shoulda' gotta look at Pebbles!"

Hagaman, whose father is secretary of the YMCA here, formerly had been associated with the American Red Cross in the Mediterranean theater of war.

Winchell — On Broadway

TOMBS PRISON derived its funeral name from its predecessor on that site, which resembled an Egyptian tomb . . . If you want a unique experience, see the Chinese films exhibited on the Bowery . . . The reason so many gangsters are hatched on the rundown Lower East Side is that there are almost no play areas for youths . . . Central Park was built as a relief project during a depression . . . The hansom cab is named after Joseph Aloysius Hansom, who invented it.

Maestro George Towne tells it: A nightclub boss was bawling out one of his entertainers: "Your act is too long; cut it a little!"

"But it's only 30 seconds now!" pouted the actor.

Flipped the boss: "Well, try and pep it up in the middle then."

"Yeah," said Ed, "and wraps the silverware up in it!"

A Missourian was highly indignant at a columnist's criticism of the president.

"Instead of picking on Truman," he complained, "guys like you oughta stick to the newspaper business."

"Maybe they would," said a scribe, "if men like Truman stuck to the haberdashery racket."

A holidaying reporter was moaning about the state of the nation.

"I used to like things better," he pointed out, "when we had two Thanksgivings."

"And," added his pal, "one Roosevelt."

All members of the UNRRA mission to the Ukraine debated how to tell the homefolks about Ukrainian girls and their "peculiarities." John Fischer met this by writing that they had the world's most impressive facades, or the Soviet brassiere industry has a great deal to teach its capitalist competitiors.

Marshall MacDuffie, chief of UNRRA in the Ukraine, was more succinct: "Anybody who has ever been to the Ukraine would never look twice at Jane Russell."

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK — Republicans in the new congress and other Americans, suddenly face to face with a chance to repeal the Wagner Act or redress some of its infamies, appear to be stunned by the opporutnity. It seems like stage-fright.

The proposals, timidly offered and merely as conversation, range from total repeal of a law which, from the beginning, has frustrated its own avowed purpose of promoting interstate commerce, to a system of regular judicial courts to replace the labor relations board. The first plan would return labor relations to the States. The second would reserve the federal government's authority in this field and apparently, would make permanent the Fascist wage-control introduced by the Roosevelt government. Nowadays, the administrative or bureaucratic arm of the government decides what wages American citizens shall receive and sets up gauleiters in the guise of union officials to rule their lives under autocratic powers. The new labor courts also would fix wages and this plan, as thus far revealed, contains no promise to restore the citizen's individual freedom of speech and thought, now limited by the constitutions of the unions and the whims of the union bosses.

In this situation, it seems to be forgotten that, in 1941, after a long and shocking series of disclosures by a special committee of the house, Howard W. Smith, of Virginia, the chairman, presented a majority board, in detail.

* * *

THIS DOCUMENT is a guide to the conditions needing correction. The program of the new Liberals in congress therefore need only take them all up, one by one, and offer a remedy for each.

The Smith committee's report said the board had been unfair and biased in its conduct and decisions and grossly partisan toward CIO unions.

The A. F. of L., labor's house of lords, as it were, never has ceased to complain of this partiality to the CIO, and especially, to its Communist elements. The aggravation was particularly painful up to the time of the investigation because there were three Communists in key positions in the administration of Wagner's law, all Roosevelt appointees, and they had loaded the lower orders of the wicked machine with party members or party liners.

How could this partiality be prevented?

By selection of honest and able men, perhaps?

That still leaves too much to the character of the men. It still leaves the law lopsided. The best of citizens, the wisest and fairest, still couldn't give a fair administration because the Wagner Act would put them in the position of counsel and friend of the unions, prosecutor of the employes, and judge. They would be obliged to be hostile to the employers and sit in judgment on them, as well.

There is not one point, from beginning to end of the Wagner act, which could not be amended or destroyed in the public interest No other law containing so much inquity except the Volstead Act ever passed congress or remained unchanged as long.

And one terrible defect of all remedial proposals, whether by the Smith committee in 1941 or by Senator Taft today, is that all of them ignore the cruel restrictions on speech and conduct which are imposed by unions on workers who can't work unless they join. These are fixed by union constitutions and union laws and, in many cases, may actually be improvised at will to satisfy the personal hatred of a union boss for a rebellious individual. Not one of the reforms thus far offered would compel unions to repsect the civic and human rights of the workers and to conform to the Constitution of the United States.

Lippmann — Today and Tomorrow

IF IT were true—as Mr. Baruch declared the other day—that "it is either-or," everlasting peace would be just around the corner. But in fact it is neither the one nor the other.

It is not true, and it was never true, that the Canadians, the British, and the French who have been disposed towards "voting against our (Mr. Baruch's) position," thereby "agree that a criminal" should have the "right" to "nullification of punishment by what can be called a subterfuge." Not even in the heat of debate was Mr. Baruch entitled to suggest that Gen. McNaughton, Sir Alexander Cadogan, and M Parodi have been trying to help criminal governments to resort to subterfuges.

Nor is his alternative—as Mr Baruch has stated it—a true one. He said that he would not recommend to the senate a treaty on atomic energy "which is open to nullification of punishment." His argument is that if "a violator" does "not have a veto to protect himself against the consequences of his willful wrongdoing" then there can be no nullification of punishment, and he can recommend the treaty to the senate.

"The issue," he said at another point is "sanctity of a treaty versus sanctity of the veto." But if that were the issue then doing away with the veto would insure the sanctity of treaties. Unfortunately, it will not. It had not done so in the past, and there is no reason to think it would do so in the future. The abolition of the veto can not and will not insure the observance and enforcement of treaties.

* * *

THE EXPLANATION I believe, of why Mr. Baruch thinks as he does is that he is reasoning from an imaginary and most unlikely situation. He is imagining a situation in which there is "a violator" who must not be allowed by his veto to prevent all the other nations of the world from punishing him But that is the least likely situation that could arise—that one nation without powerful allies, "willfully challenged all the other nations who were ready and willing to punish it—if only his veto did not prevent them.

If that were the situation we had to worry about there would be little to worry about. But actually—as all his historic experience shows—a nation preparing for world conquest will never nakedly and alone challenge the whole world. It will never do what Mr. Baruch imagines it will do. It will first seek powerful allies for itself.

The real difficulty is not, as Mr Baruch supposes, when one nation—"a violator"—challenges the whole world. The real difficulty arises when the world divides into two coalitions, one of them a dynamic partnership for conquest and the other a passive and uncertain partnership for defense. The abolition of the veto has nothing to do with this real difficulty

FOR IF the would-be aggressor cannot find powerful allies who are also interested in aggression, and cannot divide or neutralize his probable opponents there is no serious danger of his starting a world war For he won't start it just because he has a veto He will start it because he thinks he is likely to win, because the more warlike nations are with him, because the more peaceable nations are unprepared and unwilling.

Mr Baruch has failed to realize that if it came to a real showdown there would not be "a violator" as he supposes but an alliance of violators. In this situation the question of punishment would probably never reach the security council But if it did there would not be just one veto, but many vetoes as there were when the league tried to deal with Japan over Manchuria and with Italy over Ethiopia

LAND CLEARING FOR RESERVOIR TO START SOON

Council Approves $74,000 Fund For Project.

Contract for clearing the land at the Clear Fork lake site was let today to John Richardson and M. P. Teter of Lexington, after city council last night set up an emergency $74,000 appropriation to finance the work. Their low bid was $73,800.

Richardson said work on the project would be started within the next week.

The work is to be completed by next Sept. 30. Previously, City Engineer W. C. Statler had urged speed in beginning the clearing work. He cited the fact that this season is good clearing weather because swamps in the reservoir area are low.

The contract was awarded by the city board of control, made up of Mayor Roy W. Vaughn and Service-Safety Director William W. Enlow.

* * *

City Speeds Action.

Council last night merely speeded up money appropriating action started last week. Councilmen set up the funds then, but the legislation wasn't designated as emergency and it wouldn't have become effective for a month. Last night's action made it available immediately.

The council also passed a resolution transferring $20 from the stationery and printing budget classification to the law library classification.

F. H. CAMPAIGN TOPS $25,000

The Friendly House Campaign fund received another shot in the arm today as additional contributions boosted the total to $25,146, Paul Endriss, campaign chairman reported.

A goal of $60,000 by Jan. 15 has been set. Mansfield industries are expected to contribute the additional $175,000 needed to erect the new Friendly House building on North Mulberry street

A considerable sum was expected to be added to fund today since this is the last day such contributions may be deducted from the 1946 income tax, Endriss pointed out.

The committee last night heard reports on the campaign and mapped an intensified campaign to begin soon after the New Year holiday

Some of the contributions reported were: Elks Lodge, $100, Order of Owls, $25, I. O. O. Mansfield was to get a new garbage truck this afternoon, boosting its "fleet" to four

Sanitation Supt Al Strachan said the $3,396 truck would go into service immediately so that others could be removed for overhauling One of the older trucks will later be held as a reserve collector, he said

The truck is similar to ones already in service, having an enclosed garbage container and automatic pick-up and dumping equipment.

Men of Mansfield—First of Series

DENT, BUILDING FOR A QUARTER CENTURY, HAS SEEN BOY SCOUTS MULTIPLY 48-FOLD

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of informal stories about men of Mansfield. Others will follow at weekly intervals.)

* * *

By KEN WOODMAN
(News-Journal Executive Editor)

Nobody would ever accuse Floyd Dent of having a split personality, yet he is seen in two ways by the community. To the general public he is area executive of the Johnny Appleseed Area, Boy Scouts of America. To Mansfield and Richland county officialdom he is a man who has cooperated with them long and efficiently in an effort to prevent juvenile delinquency and stamp out factors that contribute to it.

Dent sees it all as one job.

As he puts it: "I have been working with human nature for well over 25 years."

And Dent has seen human nature at its best and at its seamiest. He can recall the time that with the help of "his boys"—the scouts and their leaders and fathers—he assisted police in rooting out a dope peddling ring in the city. In 1921-22 he served as special probation officer under Judge W. J. Bissman.

On another occasion he worked with school authorities in a clean-up of pornographic literature.

* * *

BUT DENT REGARDS THESE as just incidents in his day to day job. What really gives him pleasure is seeing members of his scout troops grow up to take key positions in the community.

Right now he points to William W. Enlow, service director of the city, and Harry Hollingsworth, a member of council. There are scores of others. Dent rolls off their names proudly. You can see he feels they share his faith in the fineness of the Mansfield community.

Characteristically, Dent honestly does not want personal credit for the success of these men.

"No individual can claim the credit," he says with conviction.

* * *

NATURALLY DENT PUTS the scouting program itself high on his list of reasons for community-mindedness among former Scouts. But he also credits the many outside organizations which have helped the Scouts.

Along with the troop leaders and den mothers who are actively engaged in Boy Scout work there are 633 adults who annually contribute a dollar apiece to further scout work.

There are 1574 boys in the Scout troops and Cub packs of Appleseed area.

* * *

WHEN DENT ENTERED BOY Scout work in October, 1920, there was just one troop. Now there are 48 troops and 15 cub packs. The area includes Richland, Ashland and part of Crawford counties.

It's an area Dent is familiar with. He was born at Springmill. He started his education in a one-room school in Bloominggrove township and went on to attend classes in Mansfield, Marion and Galion. He came to live in Mansfield permanently in 1910, taking time away from the city only to attend Penn college, Oskaloosa, Ia., Notre Dame university, and to serve in the Army Air corps in 1917-18.

* * *

WHAT OF THE FUTURE? Well, Dent expects to see the scouting program continue to grow. But he sees a corollary program growing with it—one for which he has worked since 1925. That is the public recreation program for which Mansfield voters approved a 2-tenths mill levy at the last election.

Dent is chairman of the city recreation board. His aim is to see a well-rounded year-around program. That, along with Scouting and the prevention of juvenile delinquency, is still just one job to Dent. It is a job of helping boys grow up to fill their fathers' positions as leaders in one of the finest communities in the nation.

In 1918 he married a Mansfield girl, Effie Yoha. They have six children. Gerald, an Ohio State university graduate, served overseas as a captain of artillery in World War II. He is now in the personnel department at Mansfield Tire & Rubber company. Two daughters, Betty and Doris, are graduates of Mansfield General hospital Nurses Training school. Norma is a secretary in a business office in Columbus. William works at Mansfield Tire, and Charles is in the eighth grade at John Simpson junior high school.

The Dents live at 248 Rae avenue.

Youths in 'Cycle Theft Ring Given Probation By Court

Four of five teen-age youths accused of stealing motor bicycles and altering their appearances by exchanging parts from other stolen vehicles were placed on probation for six months yesterday afternoon.

Juvenile Judge S H. Cramer continued the case of the fifth boy for further investigation into implications that the youth is involved in other law violations.

Apprehension of the boys and their conviction brought to an end what police described as a theft ring with a "yen" for motor bikes. Two of the vehicles, valued at $180 and $175, a manually operated bicycle and parts of another were recovered.

After confessing in court, four of the boys were placed on probation to the court for six months, ordered to make weekly reports to the court, and make restitution to the owners of the bicycles

Meanwhile, a 16-year-old girl of near Lexington, convicted of shoplifting, was released into the custoid of her parents who were ordered to make periodic reports to the court. The girl, who confessed stealing clothing from the Montgomery Ward store in Mansfield, was ordered to shop only when accompanied by her parents.

Another 16-year-old girl, of Mansfield, was charged with delinquency in staying out late at night and in becoming disorderly. Her case was continued.

A 17-year-old Shelby youth, accused by Shelby police of reckless driving, lost his driver's license for six months.

BOARD PICKS DR. TONNEY AS COMMISSIONER

Former Research Director To Take Job Vacated By Dr. W. B. Wild.

Dr. Fred O. Tonney of Dayton, a veteran public health official, has been named health commissioner of Mansfield and Richland county, Dr. H. G. Kierim, acting commissioner, announced today. He will report for duty Thursday.

Dr. Tonney, currently engaged in private practice at Dayton, served in various capacities with the Chicago board of health from 1909 to 1937.

He succeeds Dr. W. B. Wild who resigned in October to take a county health directorship in Michigan. Dr. Knierim has been serving as acting commissioner since that time.

The new health commissioner is a graduate of the University of Chicago and Loyola University School of medicine. He is married and has one son. He is a member of the Congregational church.

* * *

Directed Research.

With the Chicago board of health he served as director of laboratories and research and assistant commissioner of health in charge of research.

He has also served as an industrial physician in Chicago, Dayton and Toledo, and as a director of a county health unit in Escanaba, Mich. This year, in addition to his private practice, he has been doing work at a veterans' administration hospital in Dayton.

Dr. Knierim said Dr. Tonney was appointed to the commissioner post by the city and county health boards following the consideration of "several" applicants.

Dr. Knierim conducts a private practice in Mansfield and, in addition, serves as head of the city-county venereal disease clinic.

COMPARE NOTES—

After New Year's day, Ivan Umphress and Siegfried Eberhardt, soldiers injured in the railroad accident Dec. 13, and confined to General hospital, will be able to compare notes on how it feels to talk to their folks over the telephone for as long as they wish. The Red Cross has promised Umphress that he may call his family at Winona, Ind, tomorrow. Eberhardt was given that privilege on Christmas day. Eberhardt hasn't seen his family since the wreck and Umphress saw his only for a few hours immediately after the wreck.

Volunteer Red Cross workers have helped make things easier at the hospital for the four youths who are still there with critical injuries. Home service department members have gone out daily to write letters, and perform errands the young GIs have been unable tb do for themselves

The other two, besides Eberhardt and Umphress, are Donald Adams and Dale Curry

M'Arthur Urges Japs to Avoid Making Same Mistake Twice

GENERAL URGES ACCEPTANCE OF NEW DEMOCRACY

Solution of Problems Rests With Nation, He States.

TOKYO —(AP)— General MacArthur cautioned the Japanese people today that unless they take full advantage of democracy and freedom "there can be but superficial and temporary change from that which brought only tragedy in Japan's past."

The occupation chief, in a New Year's message, said the success of many reforms that have come since the surrender depended upon the manner in which the people discharged their new political responsibilities, the leaders they chose and the faithfulness of those leaders in preserving the people's rights.

"On the people alone rests the solution to many of the pressing problems which harass Japan's present and will shape Japan's future," MacArthur said.

In the year just past, he declared, "none will fail to concede major advances" toward a social system that seeks equality of opportunity, maximum human freedom and elevation of the dignity, well-being and happiness of the individual.

"Much has been accomplished," he said. "Much remains to be done. There have been many successes, some failures; many strong points, some weak; much good, some bad.

Praises Leaders.

"The great majority of Japan's leaders have displayed an exemplary approach to the realism of Japan's problems—an even greater majority of Japan's people resolutely have sought to remove the causes of Japan's ill-fated past and faithfully to build for Japan's happier future."

Throughout the year, the commander remarked, he was fully aware of cross-currents "of decision and indecision, progress and retrogression, steps both faltering and resolute" marking the fight between the forces of liberalism and reaction to establish a common ground for Japan's salvation.

The results in 1947, he said, will have a profound bearing on the well-being of the Japanese people in future generations and "whether can be brought to fruition those great reforms now being charted."

In the year ahead, he pointed out, the new constitution will go into effect, placing sovereign power in the hands of the people, agrarian reforms will be implemented so the farmer may keep the gains of his toil, and the people will have the opportunity to select their own leaders.

In conclusion, MacArthur said, "it is my prayer, indeed, my firm anticipation, that the Japanese people will understand and grasp this opportunity and rise resolutely to meet its challenge. Therein lies Japan's salvation—therein lies the opportunity for future peace and happiness for the Japanese people—and therein lies the hope of all the peoples of the east for a better civilization."

Gerard L. Hughes, seaman first class of the U. S. Coast Guard, left Thursday for Staten Island, New York, after spending a nine-day leave with his parents here, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Heichel.

Dinner guests Christmas day in the Heichel home were Mr and Mrs. Vanus Heichel, of Mansfield; Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Loney and family, of North Liberty, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Beveridge and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Beveridge and family.

PAY OF BUCYRUS EMPLOYES UPPED

BUCYRUS—Effective at midnight today all municipal employes and teachers of the public school system will be working at an increased salary schedule.

Municipal employes will get $10 more a month and teachers will receive $30 more.

The municipal pay increases will not, however, affect elected officials, but they do cover appointed ones.

The teacher increases are temporary and are to exist only through January, February and March. Some time ago the teachers asked a pay raise from the school board. The board offered $350 a year, but the teachers rejected it.

Teachers demanded a new salary schedule instead of a flat raise. A delegation of teachers attended the board meeting when the $30 was voted and reiterated their request. The board, however, took the position that a temporary raise would be in order until it is determined what action the state will take relative to teacher pay and foundation funds.

county Republican leaders. A meeting of all GOP county executive and central committee chairmen of the eight counties in Division 3 had been scheduled for Friday night in order to endorse a candidate for the post.

Ralph M. Hardy, chairman of the Richland county executive committee, termed the appointment "surprising, in a way."

"We probably will endorse him anyway, since we felt he had the inside track. But it's surprising that the appointment wasn't withheld until the endorsement had been made," he said.

J. V. Will, chairman of the Richland county central committee, called Bricker's selection "unusual."

"It's not unusual in choice of the man because he is well qualified and seemed to be the favorite. But we were all set to endorse a candidate for the job," he said.

Meeting Set, Anyway.

Both Hardy and Will said, however, that the meeting in the Southern hotel at 6:30 p. m., would be held anyway and that endorsements for two assistant engineer positions and other department jobs probably would be made.

Bricker is a specialist in road and bridge design and construction. A member of the merchant marine in World War I, he was trained at Akron university and Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland.

He served as village engineer of Medina and later became bridge engineer for the Medina county engineer's office. He also served as resident Medina county engineer for the highway department. He is a member of the National Road Builders Association and a director of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers. Married, he has a son in the air forces and a daughter.

All division engineers currently receive $4,000 a year. However, Governor-Elect Herbert has indicated that he will seek a pay increase for them.

Last chance to complete whatever it was that you planned to do in 1946.

Take a look at that list of resolutions you made a year ago—some of them may be worth further consideration.

Drive carefully tonight—and don't try to drive home from a night club or drinking party—lock your car and take a taxi.

Big 'If' In Prosperity Forecast

THE NEW YEAR can be one of prosperity for this nation provided labor and management can keep industry's wheels going without a repetition of costly strikes. This is the gist of the first annual report to President Truman by his new Council of Economic Advisers. The president, in making the findings public, reveals more confidence in uninterrupted good times than do the advisers, who see certain tension spots. These doubtless are the uncertainty about miners' wage increases, a question waiting the Supreme Court's action on the Lewis contempt charges, and the CIO union's new drive for 25 per cent wage hikes.

The council, born under the 1946 Employment Act, includes Edwin G. Nourse, of the Brookings Institute, Leon Keyserling, government housing official, and John D. Clark, former University of Nebraska professor.

While in general the report keeps the middle ground between private enterprise and government-managed economy, the council arrives at what seems a sound conclusion: the major threats to immediate prosperity "must be worked out without direct government intervention through the practical wisdom of management and labor, farmers and financiers." This means employers and employes settling their own problems amicably and keeping on the job—a good promise for 1947.

Various Ways of Welcoming New Year

ACCEPTING the idea that "it is the unusual that makes news," explanation may be found for the emphasis being placed this year-end on the preparedness of night clubs to handle "the biggest business in their history" and the adequacy of liquor supplies to meet an anticipated unprecedented demand.

New York City appears to be the pacemaker in this line, with other big and little cities accepting the pattern. A United Press writer, a few days ago, said: "New Yorkers are going to have to spend more money than usual to give a proper welcome to 1947." As an alternative he suggested: "You can stay home with a copy of a new almanac and a glass of milk."

While any other viewpoint may be regarded as "provincial," there is just a chance that, even in New York, there are still a considerable number of people who will welcome the new year in the religious atmosphere of a "watch meeting," in church or home, and that there will be many home gatherings of friends, neighbors and club groups which will be entirely free from drunken roistering.

The Akron Beacon Journal presents a thought on this subject: "For every customer in the Akron night clubs (which will charge plenty, but not as much as New York's) a score of persons will gather in more enjoyable parties in private homes. . . . Generally speaking, the home parties will be productive of genuine fun, as compared with the synthetic variety available at great price in the smoke-filled saloons."

So a "proper welcome" of the new year, it appears, depends entirely on the individual point of view, rather than that either New York or Hollywood bellwethers be followed by other than their customary flock.

Children Learn Chess Quickly

POSSIBLY because the encyclopedia describes chess as "the most intellectual of all games of skill," many people consider this game entirely too deep for them, but it would seem that this is not actually the case and that no more than a half hour is required to learn the fundamentals of chess, after which skill is developed by study and regularity of play.

Chess is played on the same kind of board as checkers, with 16 "men" for each of the two players, the "men" varying in power according to their rank. Benjamin Franklin was the first American to bring the game into prominence in this country, the game having apparently been of early Asiatic origin.

Oddly enough, eight or nine years of age is not regarded as too early to start learning to play chess, and information is to the effect that "practically every important city" now has its junior chess clubs. Milwaukee, for instance, sponsors a civic chess program, culminating in a gigantic open-air tournament in which thousands of school children participate. Cleveland stands high in development of chess as an extra-curricular school activity, as does also New York.

It appears that as a game, as well as a science, chess has captured the attention of thousands of bright children all over the country, and it may be wondered if this is something that is being overlooked in Mansfield for want of interested sponsorship.

Move To Save Immature Trees

WISCONSIN is going to do something to protect its trees.

Conservation commissioners hope to get a law through the next legislature to prevent lumber and paper companies from cutting immature trees. Unless such a measure is passed, say its backers, the forests of the state soon will be ruined. The result would be the end of the lumber and paper business, which are major industries of that region. These support innumerable towns that would become "ghost" towns, and give employment to 50,000 people who would be made jobless.

Conservation of all varieties of natural resources is an imperative need for many sections of the United States. This country has been profligate of what nature gave it. Wanton destruction of woodlands has gone on in many states besides Wisconsin. It is time something was done about it. Wisconsin is tardily getting around to a sane forestry policy. Many other states can profit by this example.

Newly elected members of congress are to receive a booklet advising them how to act properly—in the upper house Senator Bilbo provides an example of how NOT to act.

As Harry Wade interprets it, when someone tells you that "you're as sound as a dollar" he may mean that you look like 30 cents.

Selected quote: "Hard work has a habit of helping people to overcome being born poor."

WILL 1947 BRING THIS KIND OF CLOSED SHOP?

Pearson Says Sabotaging OPA Was Disastrous to National Economy

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — As the year closes today, it may be wise to look back at what some experts predict will prove to be the most disastrous economic development of 1946.

Most people's memories are short. Issues get obscured by political bombast. Thus the general public has forgotten the details of the terrific battle to "hold the line" which began exactly one year go and which today is already causing talk of a "recession"—the polite name for what we hope will not be a depression.

So, just to keep the record straight, and without political recriminations, let's dig under the campaign oratory to see what actually did happen—and what may further happen—in regard to the most important economic issue before the USA—inflation and the high cost of living.

First, let's take a look at what's happening in one key industry—women's wear. During the battle of the OPA last spring, the women's wear industry was one of the leading sabotagers of price control. In the end it got what it wanted. And perhaps as a result the entire industry today is on the spot.

Salesrooms Almost Deserted.

Stores throughout the country are loaded down with surplus stocks of women's wear beyond anything they can possibly sell. The salesrooms on 7th avenue, New York, center of the women's wear trade, are almost without buyers. Skilled needlecraftsmen, who were able to work as many hours a day as they wanted, are other jobless or working only ten to twelve hours a week.

What happened was that prices went out of sight. After the industry won its OPA battle, it shot prices up so high that women started a virtual buyers' strike.

Sales of women's wear dropped off 20 per cent this December, compared with last. A Federal Reserve survey shows that the ratio of stock on hand, compared with sales, is now the highest in Federal Reserve history.

For instance, there is about 77 per cent more stock of junior coats and suits now on hand in proportion to sales than in 1940. The same is true of furs, housewear, sportswear, girls' wear, handbags, negligees, robes, gloves, and street dresses. And 1940 was not one of our most prosperous years.

General lowering of prices, of course, is a good thing. But the tragedy is that hundreds of little businessmen not responsible for the price rise may have to take it on the chin. So also labor. Today there are about 100,000 needletrades workers out of jobs—all because their manufacturers fought the OPA—and won.

Outside the women's wear industry, another tragedy is that thousands of small businessmen cannot plan for the future. They don't know what materials will cost or how much wages will be. That is a situation which doesn't help post-war conversion. It only helps depression.

Bowles Was Right.

So, clearing away the political chaff, let's look back and see who was responsible for getting us into all this.

Chapter 1—The War: Whether we liked price control or not, it worked unexpectedly well during the war, and incidentally is still working well in Canada and England. The men responsible for making it work were Leon Henderson and Chester Bowles, who refused to play politics or yield to pressure groups. As Bowles once said: "We can't play this by ear. This job has got to be played across the board." Result: The OPA served the public interest and won powerful enemies.

Chapter 2—The Battle of Steel: One year ago came the first big attack on the OPA—the demand for increased steel wages, and simultaneously a drive for an increase in the price of steel. Even before this, the Truman normalcy boys had rushed to drop building controls and various War Production Board measures aimed to protect little business at the expense of big.

So, though Bowles held out for two months against an increase in steel prices, John Snyder finally persuaded Truman that this was the easy way out. Bowles threatened to resign and talked so tough that Truman never forgave him.

The OPA administrator argued that steel profits were so lush during the war that industry could afford a reasonable pay increase without any appreciable increase in the price of steel. In the end he was overruled.

Bowles however was right. Today the U. S. Steel Corporation has chalked up an increased profit in the first nine months of 1946, 16 per cent higher than during the first nine months of 1945—after taxes. Republic Steel has increased its profits 111 per cent this year over last—again, after taxes. Youngstown Sheet and Tube has shot up 199 per cent during the same nine months of this year, while Armco Steel, Jones & Laughlin, National Steel and Inland Steel have increased profits from 3 per cent to 82 per cent—all after taxes and after paying increased wages.

Chapter 3—King Cotton Tips the Scale: The defeat on steel was described as a "bulge." Actually, it sent a wave of price and wage increases through the nation's economy. Bowles tried to recover lost ground by moving in February for a quick decision by congress to renew the Economic Stabilization Act and continue price controls for another year.

He urged that only steady, stable production could prevent sky-high prices, inflation, and more demands for increased wages.

His appeal to congress started one of the greatest lobbying drives ever seen in the national capital. The automobile dealers, the livestock association, the National Retail Dry Goods association, the National Association of Manufacturers—all brought pressure on every congressman they knew.

Road To Depression.

Men like Senators Wherry and Butler of Nebraska, Republicans, both in the cattle business, shamelessly worked for meat amendments which would mean personal profit for themselves and friends.

Senators Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma and Bankhead of Alabama, Democrats, shamelessly fought against any controls on cotton speculation, though both were trading either personally or through their families in cotton futures.

In the end, it was the cotton bloc that defeated price control. Hitherto, the cotton congressmen had supported price stabilization, but at the decisive moment in the battle, they switched 33 key votes to the Republican side and the bill was emasculated.

Chester Bowles warned them again and again that high-priced cotton would hasten rayon substitution, destroy foreign markets, multiply clothing costs, and threaten the same kind of collapse as occurred after World War I.

In view of the recent debacle on the cotton market, wiping out many traders and turning the cotton economy topsy-turvy, even his critics would now agree that Bowles was right.

The rest of the story is too recent to need much retelling. Withholding became general — from white shirts to radios and meat. Demoralization spread throughout the country. The vetoing of the original OPA bill and the subsequent signing of a substitute which was just as bad, probably contributed to Democratic defeat in November.

The public recognized that this off-again, on-again policy not only was a victory for pressure politics, but showed how weak the Truman administration really was.

The tragedy is that the people who get hurt most by downward swings are the little people not responsible for them. And when too many people get hurt economically, it leads downhill toward depression.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Dec. 31, 1926.

William E. Ford, 74, well-known traveling salesman, died at his home, 261 West Fourth street.

Official notice was received that Richland was the banner county of the state in Farm Bureau membership.

Reports at congregational meeting of Baptist church showed prosperous year with membership of 524 and all accounts paid in full.

Mr. and Mrs. Maynard U. Cram moved from Louise avenue into their newly finished home, Park avenue west road.

Dave Boone Says:

IF YOU RE an employer and you ain't been sued in this portal-to-portal business yet, you're either in bankruptcy or you've got your factory so deep in the woods the lawyers can't find it.

* * *

I know a boss who is afraid the help will now sue him for the time it took to sue him.

* * *

When the head of a Washington agency comes out for cutting red tape, for more economy and less snafu, that's news. George Allen, who is supposed to be a funny man, did this and not a Democrat has laughed at him since.

* * *

But where he left off trying to be funny, the president took over. Harry announced that Uncle Sam has 70 per cent of his lend-lease aid repaid. Allen can't beat that even if he gets on the "Can You Top This?" radio program.

Assignment: America

—By KENNETH L. DIXON

Vets Want Houses, Get More Excuses.

WASHINGTON—This is a frank message to the collection of real estate, construction and financial interests which successfully lobbied the veterans emergency housing program into limbo and ousted Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt:

Look boys, if your current capital press agents correctly express your attitude, you'd better get on the ball and change that attitude—before it's too late.

And, if those press agents and lobbyists don't present your point of view, you'd better fire them and get somebody who will.

Otherwise, you're liable to find yourselves tied up in federal controls the like of which you've never seen before!

Here's why they're mad:

Constantly, during the past year, you folks preached that you could build more houses if only, (1) The Wagner - Ellender - Taft bill were defeated; (2) Wyatt were eased out as housing expediter, and (3) If majority of the tight housing controls were relaxed.

Now those things have been done, and instead of action reports, all your press agents are handing out to the house-hungry public are plaintive apologies.

In short, as yet you have refused publicly to accept the responsibility you fought for and won. . . .

Instead of pointing forward towards more new homes for veterans, the publicity men who represent the National Association of Real Estate Boards here in Washington already are whining that all these actions for which they lobbied so long are merely "harmless sugar pills" and only represent "a watering down of the Wyatt program . . ."

They add that unless all controls—including rent—are lifted, and unless tax incentives are given by the government to the construction industry, not much improvement can be expected in the housing emergency.

Speaking in the same belligerently apologetic vein, spokesmen for the National Association of Home Builders now say that "so long as government acts in anything but an advisory capacity, our industry is seriously hampered and cannot function to its maximum capacity for veterans and others . . ."

That certainly is a different tune than you boys were singing a few months back—when you were leading the lobbying battle against Wyatt and his program. Then your theme was: "Get rid of Wyatt and his program and we'll show you how to build houses."

Lots of veterans read those speeches, press releases and promises. Many of them believed them implicitly, and they expected you to accept the responsibility you had won, and go on from there.

They still expect that. The very conservative Army and Navy Bulletin says editorially this week:

"For many months private industry, ranging from material manufacturers to building contractors and real estate operators, has been making claims that it could do the job of meeting the housing emergency if given a free rein by the federal government. By and large private industry now has the opportunity to function on an unregulated basis for which it has been asking. It now is up to industry to show what it can do . ."

The more outspoken "Veterans Report," warning that rent controls now are under fire, says that revising the housing regulations "set back the veterans housing program a minimum of two years. That's for homes of their own. As to the emphasis on rental housing—by the time these structures are available they will not have a rental price within reach of the average veteran . . . The lone remaining hope for veterans to secure moderate-priced housing lies in stepped-up production . . ."

Even spokesmen for the American Legion, which played ball pretty well with you boys, are beginning to back up a bit and wonder when you're going to start devoting your energies to action instead of apologies.

And all of these groups have access to the White House . . .

Do you see what I mean? Strange as it might sound, coming after all this criticism, I believe that American private industry can build enough homes to relieve this emergency.

But if it doesn't quit making excuses and start making houses, it's soon going to be back under federal controls that will make the old ones pale by comparison!

Timely Editorial

Move To Abolish "Dear Sir:"

The society organized in Chicago for abolishing "Dear" in business letters is not attacking anything new. The origin of the practice of saluting one's correspondent—friend or foe or creditor or delinquent borrower—as "Dear" is lost in the mists of antiquity. It is one of the many absurdities so rooted in custom as to be accepted without thought.

Except in diplomacy, with its many surviving hypocrisies, we are done with the old way of signing off the letter, perhaps of some mortal adversary, with "I have the honor, sir, to remain your obedient servant." But the salutation remains unchanged, its old insincere self. Millions of letters written every day are one in spirit with the classic communication to the editor: "Dear Sir: You rat!"—Detroit News.

Thomas L. Stokes

Desperate Plight of School Teachers.

WASHINGTON — Rep. Rankin, the irrepressible gentleman from Mississippi, has picked out a new project for the house committee on un-American activities.

He wants to investigate institutions of higher learning for what he calls "pink teachers." Maybe Mr. Rankin can find something there, though his record inspires little faith in his ability to judge. He is only one member of the committee, but he issued his latest ukase with that magisterial "we" he assumes so easily.

"We are determined," he says, "that this government shall not be undermined. We are determined that the American government and the American way of life shall not be destroyed."

If he wants to be sure of that, he might look a little closer home—to a problem that involves basic education. He might get his committee, or some other, to investigate the pitiably meager and inadequate salaries of public-school teachers. The public-school system, the foundation of our education, is in serious straits.

This is not a new development, although the problem has become more acute with inflation. People in various localities have become conscious of this through numerous strikes of teachers in recent weeks. They have been widespread.

The National Education Association has recognized what it calls "the present crisis in education." Its executive committee has prepared a "policy statement on teacher action in the crisis" to be released from national headquarters here.

"In many communities the crisis in education has advanced to a point at which teachers are compelled to take direct action," it says. "In an increasing number of communities they have gone on strike. In other communities different procedures have been followed."

In neighboring Virginia, a low-salary distress area, a parent-teachers association meeting was amazed to hear a request from a school principal that he also be allowed to be janitor to get the additional $60 a month so he and his family could live.

The lowest scale of all is in Mr. Rankin's state of Mississippi, where more than half of the teachers get less than $842 a year. For this and other statistics, this column is indebted to a comprehensive analysis of the public-school situation in the current "United States News" published by David Lawrence.

Among other things, it reveals that 350,000 of the 900,00 teachers in public schools have quit since 1939 and had gone into other more remunerative occupations.

Many have taken odd jobs in their out-of-school hours to make enough to live.

The national average pay is now close to $2,000 a year, but this includes salaries of principals, supervisors, and upper-level employes. More than half of the nation's public-school teachers make less than $2,000 a year. Only three states have minimum salary limits above $1,600 a year—California and Washington with $1,800 and Georgia with $1,620. In most cities, starting salaries for school teachers are less than those at which bus and truck drivers, bartenders, garment workers and telephone operators start.

This is a local problem. It is also a national problem.

Group To Outline Progressive Program.

WASHINGTON—On January 4 a group of progressives will meet here in Washington in an effort to shape a program on which it is hoped eventually that millions of Americans can agree. In many ways this meeting is likely to have an importance beyond the treatment it will receive in the news.

In the first place, the effort is not to make headlines. The day-long meeting will be off-the-record, with the conclusions announced to the press at the end of the session.

One reason why this meeting has special significance is that perhaps for the first time for such a gathering a deliberate and careful effort has been made to exclude Communists.

It is being held under the auspices of the Union for Democratic Action of which Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, professor of Applied Christianity at Union Theological Seminary, is the head.

Dr. Niebuhr, a forceful and militant progressive, has persistently resisted the attempts of Communists and fellow travelers to make democratic movement merely another part of the tail on the Communist kite. More often than not, the Communists have succeeded by their ruthless tactics merely to disrupt the organizations they attempt to take over.

While they will attend as individuals rather than as representatives of their organizations, several of the labor leaders who will participate are those who have long worked to rid the unions of Communist fellow-traveler intrigue.

They have seen the disastrous effect of this intrigue that has helped to divide the labor movement and to make individual unions serve the end of Russian foreign policy rather than true trade unionism. Among the union officials who will participate are Allan Haywood, George Baldanzi, and James B. Carey of the CIO and David Dubinsky and Boris Shishkin of the AFL.

One of the prominent participants will be Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. Mrs. Roosevelt has had her own searing experiences with the Communists. But these experiences have only strengthened her belief in a progressivism based on the fundamental human freedoms. Out of deep conviction, this remarkable woman stood up to the Russian delegates at the recent United Nations sessions in defense of the rights of displaced persons. Again and again with moving eloquence she defended those rights.

Among the office-holders and former office-holders who will attend is Minneapolis' Mayor Hubert Humphrey. Still in his early thirties, Mr. Humphrey has won a wide reputation for his leadership of progressive forces in Minnesota.

The common denominator will be the desire to unite on a progressive program that can wain the widest possible support throughout the country.

This program will cover social reform, race relations and all the vexatious problems bound to arise in coming years.

A declaration of common purpose will be particularly important in the light of the witch hunting and Red baiting that congress may indulge in. If the Republicans allow the Rankin-Ernie Adamson mentality to prevail, then everyone who ever has worked for a progressive cause will be smeared with the Red label.

The January 4 meeting may not shake the world. But the conscientious men and women who sit down together hope to agree on a platform that will correspond to the desires and aspirations of millions of Americans.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

WE STAND at the portal of a new year in which we look forward to great gains . . . portal to portal.

* * *

We have the usual choice of spending New Year's Eve on our knees or on our faces . . . But in either case it should be enthusiastic.

* * *

The end of the old year marks the birth of a new group known as the "Progressive Citizens of America" and we, the 170-year-old group known just as "Citizens of America," bid them welcome.

* * *

Where the "Progressive Citizens of America" are gathered you will find liberal thought, liberal words and conservative dues of $3 a year.

* * *

But this should be a great year into which we move . . . 365 days for the common man to get uncommonly confused.

* * *

In the welter of confusion it is pleasing to know that there is one who has not the mission of saving the world . . . Margaret Truman just wants to sing in opera.

New Year's Eve

—By ANNE CAMPBELL

Dreaming the New Year in, the child
Stirs in her sleep when on the air
The bells ring out. The people shout
The happy tidings everywhere.
The jangling of the bells is wild.

Dancing the New Year in, the youth
Pauses to hear the glad refrain.
The music stops; the wine corks pop.
King Year is dead and lives again,
And may write yet of hope and truth.

Praying the New Year in, the white-
Haired man and woman hear the soft
Strains of a hymn drift from the dim
Recess of the high organ loft,
While Peace falls with the candlelight.
